

PHOTON

PORTA ROMANA

PHOTON

Constantly in motion; in collision and flow. A mass of energy looping and tracing its path around the universe. Photon, the quantum of light.

Science makes patterns of these apparently random movements. Waves, particles, curves and spheres. Elements combined to create the Photon collection of lighting and furniture.

GARETH DEVONALD SMITH

We welcome back the renowned artist Gareth Devonald Smith with this capsule collection. His strong and identifiable style is showcased in these distinctive designs that sit so beautifully within our Photon Collection.

When embarking on a new piece, the creative process begins with experimentation. Shapes and doodles combine with Gareth's instinctive flair for form and colour. Combine these ideas with the talents of our artisans and craftspeople, the best natural and man-made materials, introduce textures, patinations and paint effects, and what we produce is an undeniable representation of the artist's work ethic. From the brutalist, linear identity of the Metropolis lamp to the considered curves and spheres of the Sputnik Chandelier, each piece captures the essence of Photon.

An exquisite capsule collection showing what is possible when the subconscious is left to play.

We are delighted to introduce our stunning new range of hand woven Ikat fabrics from Uzbekistan, designed to enhance and complement our lighting collection.

These complex fabrics have been made for centuries across Europe and South America, although the craft, so mastered by the Uzbeks, all but died out under Soviet rule. The few remaining traditional weavers, who use foot-operated wooden looms, are now flourishing again as the world falls in love with their beautiful motifs, layered colours and vivacious patterns.

The designs are called Chevron, Kite, Pongo and Sultan.
